Modern portfolio theory (MPT), or mean-variance analysis, is a mathematical framework for assembling a portfolio of assets such that the expected return is maximized for a given level of risk. It is a formalization and extension of diversification in investing, the idea that owning different kinds of financial assets is less risky than owning only one type.

We only used this a couple of times and although the trimming action worked well (when it worked) the trimmer has some issues. At first we thought it was the brand of batteries we were using and that it was draining them, so we switched and it would work great for about 30 seconds, then pretty much die.

In finance, the beta ( $\hat{\beta}^2$  or beta coefficient) of an investment indicates whether the investment is more or less volatile than the market as a whole.. Beta is a measure of the risk arising from exposure to general market movements as opposed to idiosyncratic factors. The market portfolio of all investable assets has a beta of exactly 1. A beta below 1 can indicate either an investment with ...
